Jury Finds Harrison Not Guilty

Laudy Harrison, arrested on November 6 by Conservation Officer Charles Hicking of Kalkaska charged with carrying buckshot and a gun in an area frequented by deer during the closed season, was found not guilty, when the case came to trial before a jury Wednesday in Justice Hans Petersen's court. At the arraignment on November 7, Harrison plead not guilty.

At the opening of the session, Elmer G. Smith, attorney for the defendant, made a motion that Harrison's gun and shells be returned, but the court denied the motion and the gun and ammunition was used as evidence. On being arrested Harrison had fine shot in the gun and was carrying two shells loaded with buckshot in his pocket. It took the jury just 15 minutes to come to a decision.

The case took up most of the day.

LADIES AID HELD ANNUAL BAZAAR LAST FRIDAY

The Ladies Aid held its annual bazaar last Friday afternoon in the parlors of Michelson Memorial church. Tea was served throughout the afternoon, with Mrs. Fred Welsh as chairman.

Mrs. R. D. Connine and Mrs. Holger Schmidt poured at a very lovely tea table centered with a bouquet of pink roses and carnations.

The gift, candy, and painted picture booths were filled with attractive merchandise. Their respective chairmen were Mrs. Harold Jarmain, Mrs. Ernest Borchers, and Miss Margrethe Baumann.

Violin and saxophone selections by Mrs. Emil Niederer and Miss Ruth Kuhlman accompanied by Mrs. C. G. Clippert were rendered during the tea hour.

Grayling Takes 1st Game; Defeats Alpena

Grayling High School opened the basketball season last Friday night by defeating the Alpena Thunderbolts on the Alpena floor in a hard-fought overtime game. The score was 18 to 20. Coach Willard Cornell's Green and White basket-shooters showed the way throughout the game, but had to go into an extra period to win.

The speedy Alpena Class B five was unable to cope with Grayling's attack and saw their guests draw away to an 8 to 1 lead at the quarter. The half time mark was much closer, with Grayling leading 11 to 9, and it was 17 to 16 as the fourth period began, Grayling still in the van.

A hectic eight minutes found the count knotted up at 18 all. The overtime periods this season are to be of the "sudden-death" variety. They end just as soon as one team makes two points in the extra period. This one lasted only 38 seconds, as Grayling got the tip and controlled the ball. Deckrow shooting from about twenty feet out and ending the game.

The game was well played defensively. Few close shots were possible for either team. Lovely, Moshier, and Smock played the whole game for Grayling. Deckrow was the offensive leader for both teams. Peterson performed well on defense. Hull, Tibbets, and Kraus broke into the line-up during the fray and played well. Alpena's star, Craghead, was well covered throughout the evening and held scoreless from the field.

Alpena's team has two regulars back from last year, and are going to be heard from before the season is over.

Grayling Defeats Boyne City For Second Victory

Tuesday night, Grayling defeated Boyne City in two overtime periods, 21-19. Moshier's side-court shot, near the close of the second overtime, made the Northern Lights' first conference victory possible.

The game was closely contested throughout with Grayling holding a slight edge until the final moments. Deckrow, Moshier, and Smock led the offensive drive, while Lovely and Petersen featured on defense. Hull, Kraus, Tibbets, and McClain played a major part with splendid performances in the pinch.

The Grayling reserves lost to a fast Boyne City team 49-12.

RECEIVES NICE PROMOTION

Edward W. Creque Jr., of Flint, well known in Grayling, has received a fine promotion, that of regional distribution manager for the Chevrolet Motor Company for the Flint region. Mr. Creque a resident of Flint all his life, began work for the Chevrolet company in 1922 as an office messenger boy, and since has served in many positions for the company and receives the new post after having served as regional car distributor for some time.

Mr. Creque is the husband of the former Elvira Rasmussen and they have four children Robert, Ted, Carie Marie and Richard. Flint has been their home for many years, but they come to Grayling frequently for their vacations and recreation. Mr. Creque's father E. W. Creque Sr., owns a cabin on the AuSable river.

The family has many friends, who will be pleased to learn of Mr. Creque's success.

Ohio's State House
The state house at Columbus, Ohio, was completed in 1850. It took 20 years to build it. In 1869 an annex was built on the east side of the main structure, and in 1929 an office building erected on the banks of the Scioto river, donated by the city of Columbus.

WHAT a convenience sometimes to be able to shop by 'phone! No need to "drop everything" and go out on particularly busy days—or in bad weather.

How nice—and how important—to be in touch with the world even when you're home alone! The pleasant chat with the friend you don't have time to visit... the last-minute arrangements for spontaneous get-togethers, bridge games, movie parties and general good times with people you like—all these are made possible by your telephone.

No wonder so many women say: "I couldn't keep house without a telephone!" In so many practical ways this modern servant pays its own small salary—and for good measure adds much to the joy of living.

TRI-COUNTY TELEPHONE COMPANY

Grayling Library Gets State Aid Grant

The first quarterly payment of the State Aid Grant has been made to the Grayling Public Library by the State Board for Libraries. This quarterly payment amounts to $36.99, and under the provisions of the law establishing state aid for libraries, the money can be used for salaries of personnel, purchase of books or equipment, extension of library service—in fact, any purpose except for the construction or remodeling of buildings, and the payment of interest or principal on debts.

Although State Aid Grants to libraries were advocated by the Constitution of 1835, the 1937 legislature was the first to make an appropriation for this purpose. It set up an annual grant of $500,000.00. The amount of the grant for this year has been reduced to $375,000.00 to be distributed to libraries throughout the state which meet certain conditions the most important of which is that the local community must appropriate for the support of the library, an amount equal to or greater than the amount granted by the State.

More than 200 libraries throughout Michigan are receiving State Aid grants. Only a handful failed to make the local appropriations necessary to qualify, and it is expected that most of these libraries will profit by their experience and qualify next year.

The second quarterly payment will be made about January 1st, 1939, and in addition, Grants from the Equalization Fund will be distributed to libraries in those sections of the state where assessed valuations are low. These grants will not be large, but as indicated, will be made to the libraries which will need money most.

Establishment grants also have been paid recently by the State Board for Libraries to the newly organized county libraries in Ingham and Branch counties. One of the duties imposed upon the Board by the law is the fostering of county libraries, and it is expected that by next year a number of additional counties will qualify for establishment grants.

A total of about 190 miles of water frontage is available for the use of the public in Michigan's state parks.

WHAT'S wrong with the post-office service? We have wondered why it is that much of the time the patrons of the office are served thru but one window. Here the public calls for and delivers its parcel post packages and at times the window is crowded and people have to wait in line for service. Now, we understand, since an interview with Postmaster James McDonnell, postal inspectors want him to close two windows and reduce the number of hours of clerk service. According to Mr. McDonnell he and his clerks are no more than able to get the work out during the scheduled number of hours they have been having. To close one window will not lessen the amount of labor required for handling the mails and for serving the patrons of the office. Inspector Hines has, according to Mr. McDonnell, frequently complimented him for the splendid management the office has had. To us, who are disinterested in the affairs of the office except that we expect good service, we hope to see enough personnel in the office to assure its good record. According to what Mr. McDonnell tells us, the demands that are being made upon him are unfair and not in accordance with the postal requirements. Should he observe these demands, the next inspector would have many reasons for criticism. Thus it appears to us that our postmaster is in a tough spot. While we may differ with him politically, in every other way we have nothing but good things to say for him. He is an able business man, is industrious in his duties, is friendly and courteous. We are sure that just about every business and professional man and citizen generally in this postal area will be in accord with the things we have said. Should things become so unbearable that he will want to resign, we will be curious to find out who is to become his successor. That may, possibly, have some bearing on what is happening at this time. Postmaster McDonnell is in Washington this week to lay the matter before higher-up officials.

SPECIALIST GIVES HOME EXTENSION LESSON

Leaders of seven groups were present Wednesday at the all-day meeting at the Court house, when Miss Ruth Peck, Home Furnishing specialist from Michigan State College gave the second lesson on "Second Year in Home Furnishing." The first lesson was "curtaining windows" and was given the latter part of September, and the second lesson given Wednesday was "Refinishing Furniture."

The morning was taken up with the ladies learning a lot about antique furniture, the origin of furniture and the progress made from one century to another up to the present time. The information on refinishing of furniture and floors proved very interesting.

Miss Peck takes the place of Miss Alice Hertzler, the latter who was very successful in organizing groups in Home Extension work. Miss Peck has Montmorency, Kalkaska, Oscoda and Crawford counties.

Recreation Notes

Summary For 1938

During the winter months many indoor activities were carried out as follows:

Three basketball leagues including one known as "Big Ten" limited to boys from the fifth to eighth grades, played four times weekly. Another was composed of three boys teams in high school and the third was the girls league in which there were four teams who had one or two nights weekly.

An archery class was organized and met three times a week in the shop. Lemon wood bows and birch arrows were made as equipment.

Boxing and wrestling were engaged in as well as winter sports activities as much as the weather permitted.

In the spring and summer months the boys took part in softball, baseball, nature hikes, and of course, "swimming". The "Old swimming hole" was operated with a lifeguard and instructor in charge each day. Many boys learned to swim and dive. No serious accidents occurred.

The men's softball league had a very successful season, playing four evenings a week for a total of twenty-two games each. The Firemen were the season's champions.

For the first time the school playground was utilized in the summer to give the small boys and girls a chance to play each day under supervision.

A new program was carried out with the cooperation of the Conservation Department. Four men acted as guides and nature instructors throughout the summer at the Hartwick Pines. About 15,000 persons registered at the logging camp.

The Chamber of Commerce information booth was operated by one of our men with the help of four N. Y. A. boys. Many thousands of people were served in this way.

With the beginning of school, activities such as boys soft ball and football and girls kick ball were resumed. This has now given way to two leagues of boys basketball and a girls indoor kickball league. Other activities now operating are a mens basketball league with games every Tuesday night; An art class with three groups meeting four afternoons a week. The group play period at the noon hour has been resumed from last year. And the archery activities have been extended to take in four C.C.C. camps.

There are several other programs in the making, such as a social recreation program and possibly a music and dramatic program.

An ice rink 80 by 100 ft. has been constructed in Wells' field as well as a hand sleigh run which will be in operation as soon as suitable weather arrives.

All these activities have been carried out by trained recreation leaders. Training institutes are held twice a month locally, and then twice a year a recreation conference or training session is held for a week at Camp Charleville. These sessions are staffed by expert state technicians. We operate with the help and cooperation of an advisory committee composed of local interested persons.

This program is sponsored by the Recreation Division of the Michigan W.P.A. and the State Department of Education, with the cooperation of local organizations.

A. G. Clough,
Senior Recreation Leader.

RECREATION ART PROGRAM

It seems there is some misunderstanding about the art program now operating. At the present time we are not instructing in commercial art because the groups are not yet capable of doing so, but a foundation is being built whereby this will be possible. Subjects of nature are now being done because all art has as a groundwork, nature. We hope soon to have a display of some of the work being done now.

Mr. Jorgenson will be glad to start with an adult or young peoples group in commercial art in the evening and a meeting will be held next week at 7:30 on Thursday evening, Dec. 15 for all interested in this.

A. G. Clough,
Senior Recreation Leader.

Washington Notes And Comments

By Congressman Roy O. Woodruff
Tenth Michigan District.

Several months ago it was observed in these Comments that if the New Deal Administration suffered any setbacks in the elections we probably would be subjected to a period of war mongering, and that a new "Crisis" in international relations would be brought out to mask the failures of the Administration in dealing with fundamental domestic problems. Those observations are now being fully confirmed both by the diplomatic moves being made by the Administration and also by the propaganda barrage now being laid down on the country for a greater national defense to be achieved with frantic haste.

Reading reports emanating from Washington and inspired by Administration spokesmen, one might well believe that the Panama Canal was to be bombed tomorrow, that New York and San Francisco and Seattle might be laid in ruins by air bombers within the next thirty days.

No sane sensible patriotic citizen questions for a moment the necessity for an entirely adequate and well-balanced national defense in these times of grave uncertainties in world affairs. We should by all means bring every department and branch of our national defense up to such strength and modernization as will guarantee the safety of this Nation under any reasonably conceivable circumstances. It is well, however, for the American people to think calmly on this subject and not permit themselves to be swept off their mental balance and stamped into a frenzied effort at a hastily-constructed national defense under the direction and at the discretion of one man—even though he be the President of the United States.

The alarmists and the political strategists of the Administration are always careful to qualify their propaganda by the terms "adequate," "logical," and "necessary" when speaking of defense.

The joker in their campaign, however, is that they want to leave to the discretion of the President and his unseen advisers the whole question of what shall be regarded as an "adequate," "logical," or "necessary" defense. This is not as it should be. It is the people who have to pay not only the bill in taxes for a national defense, but who have to pay in taxes for the maintenance of that defense after it is organized and constructed.

The President—and his unseen advisers, who have no responsibility to the people, but only to the President—should not be the sole judges of what constitutes an adequate or logical or necessary defense. It is the people's representatives—the Congress—who should determine these questions. This means that the Congress should, and undoubtedly will, demand that the President make clear to the country what the actual necessities are, what his foreign policies are, and what real threats may exist to the peace of this country, in order that the Congress may have firm ground upon which to base a judgment as to what shall constitute an adequate national defense.

Up to this time, not even Mr. Roosevelt's own leaders in Congress know what his foreign policy has been or now is. The country has been literally battered by a barrage of propaganda which deals only in vague generalities, and which gives us no facts upon which to base any sound judgment as to what kind of a national defense will be adequate. The Congress at this time is without the necessary knowledge of the Administration's foreign policies, its future intentions, or its past and present commitments, to determine logically how much of the people's money ought to be spent in enlarging and strengthening our national defense, what branches and departments of our national defense ought to be strengthened, and how much expense should be incurred in the upkeep of the national defense mechanism. These questions are all of the most vital interest to every American citizen; not only do they hit his pocketbook, but they strike into the very roots of our human associations. It takes men to operate defense mechanism. That means that if we encourage aggressive or offensive attitudes on the part of the Administration by a defense mechanism that could be readily used for offensive purposes, we are very apt to bring about a situation under which exuberant natures enamored of great power in world affairs might be tempted beyond their strength to go too far in interfering with the purely national questions of other nations and involve us in conflict and in death for millions of our citizens.

It should be repeated that it is only the part of good sense and wise discretion to build up as rapidly as possible an adequate national defense. It is equally as logical and as wise that the Administration should give the new Congress every fact pertaining to the world situation and our own condition of defense, and then leave to Congress the question of determining what will be an adequate defense under the circumstances.

Thus far there has appeared no inclination on the part of the Administration to do that. Rather, in keeping with the Roosevelt practice from the minute he entered the White House, the whole emphasis has been on giving the President greater power and discretion in the matter. This, it is safe to say, the Congress will not do.

Farm to City

Movement of population from farm to city is not confined to the United States. In 1800 only 4 per cent of our people lived in cities; today 56 per cent do. In England 20 per cent lived in cities in 1800 as compared to 80 per cent today. In Germany city residents have increased from 10 per cent to 60 per cent in the same period.

Health & Hygiene

SHORTNESS OF BREATH
Willful blindness to the inevitable exacted by the passing years from the body is, perhaps, the most common of human failings. One need not be a hypochondriac, searching always within himself for symptoms of fatal maladies, to perceive nature's automatic signals to "slow down." The relatively rare individual who has regard for his health and who looks forward to enjoying the sunset years of life will receive and obey the "slow" signs without alarm. Others who whip themselves into a continuous fever of activity may succeed in conveying the impression—for a time—that they alone have discovered the fabled fountain of youth. But eventually the weary flesh succumbs to the lash of the tyrant spirit.

Shortness of breath is one of the earliest, most important and most persistent signals to appear. Advancing age produces a general hardening of the chest cavity and its contents. The heart, especially, is no longer able to respond, with the elasticity of youth, to the demands made upon it by sudden or prolonged exertion. Exciting experiences which once served as stimulants, sending a pleasant glow throughout the body, may in later years draw heavily upon the reserve power of the heart resulting in lassitude or debility.

It is true that many persons, in what is known as the "prime of life," suffer from shortness of breath. This may indicate a mild heart disease or it may result from the attempt to carry about 20 to 30 pounds of excess fat and tissue. In any case, a complete physical examination and submission to a suggested regimen is highly desirable.

The physician, whose patient complains of shortness of breath, will not fail to suspect, besides the more obvious causes, anemia, infection and pulmonary disease. Something he may be quite sure has lessened the tolerance of the heart and blood vessels to exercise. The blood pressure is recorded, the weight checked and the urine analyzed. The X-ray explores the chest and the electrocardiogram draws a true picture of the heart in action. The gums, teeth sinuses, the prostate and other glands are examined for possible local areas of infection.

Minor surgical operations may be recommended; diet may be regulated; rest periods at intervals throughout the day may be suggested, and mild sedatives may be prescribed—all with the aim of maintaining the circulation at as efficient a level as possible, considering the age of the patient.

Medical science has not yet reached the point where it may offer new hearts for old, but it is in a position to advise the aging individual how to make the vital organ serve his needs. The physician's chief difficulty lies in winning complete acceptance of his advice.

Hindus First Settlers of Java

The original inhabitants and settlers of Java were Hindus who seem to have first visited the island about 75 A. D. Dutch rule in the island began in 1610 and there was a brief rule by the French and later by the British. The Dutch resumed possession in 1817. The Island is about 49,000 square miles. From end to end of the island there is a mountain chain and on the western part of the island there are several parallel shorter chains. To the north there are a few isolated mountains. There are 43 volcanoes. The population is divided into Europeans, natives (Malays) and foreign Orientals (Chinese and Arabs).

Grayling was well represented at a meeting of the 8th district of Kiwanis at Cadillac Tuesday night. Those from here were President J. F. Cook; president elect Charles E. Moore, vice president elect Farnham Matson; secretary Roy Trudeau and past president O. P. Schumann. The meeting was a school of instruction for officers. This was the first opportunity of the local officers to meet Governor Nels Knudsen of Pontiac, and Dr. Showalter, lieutenant governor, of Cadillac. A few years later a man by the name of Watt invented the steam engines and it was put in the train. And today we have large streamline trains with Diesel engines.

The automobile was invented by Oliver Evans in 1805. It was a crude contraption run by a steam engine. In England there were quite a few automobiles.

There were not so many in America because of the bad roads. The automobile was very unpopular because it frightened the people and animals. Toward the end of the eighteenth century the gasoline engine was put in the automobile. Today there are good roads, the automobiles are comfortable, and they don't cost as much.

Travel On The Sea

(By Clarence Small)

The first men probably rode upon logs in the water before they made the dugout, which hollowed out of a log, was the forerunner of the rowboat. When Archet VonSchmitt put a small sail on a dugout the people thought the wind would tip the boat over. However, this experiment proved to be a success and the boats were made larger and larger sails were put on them.

The Juniors Play which had to be postponed due to illness of members of the play cast, will be presented January 10th.

The members of the 9th Grade Home Ec. class enjoyed a luncheon during their regular class period Tuesday. This was in preparation for the formal luncheon which will be given soon.

Thursday noon several members of the Home Ec. class gave a luncheon for their mothers. The members were J. Mathews, D. L. LaMotte, B. Christensen, B. Carr, E. Broadbent, and G. Brown.

Travel By Land

(By Elmer Durham)

Walking was the only means of travel known to the caveman. Thousands of years later he tamed the first animal to carry him. On the desert he used the camel, in the jungle he used the elephant, and in the mountains the burro. The first horses in America were brought over by the Spaniards. The horses would escape from them and ran in large herds over the country and were caught by the Indians and made to carry them.

Many hundreds of years later in Egypt the wheel was invented. It was very crude and heavy. Later man discovered that if he cut some pieces out of the middle of the wheel that it is lighter and it later served as a hub. Then he attached some boards to the wheels and made a cart which he had some animal pull.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth the first coach was made for the Earl of Rutland in England in 1555. It was nice for that time but it had hard tires, and no windows which made it very cold and bumpy in the winter. Later they made a coach which hung from a frame by straps. This eased the bumps a little.

Later the covered wagon was made; it was the wagon that carried the pioneers across the United States. This wagon was drawn by oxen, horses, or mules across the continent.

After a while the people got tired of the long slow journeys by covered wagon. So the train was invented. It ran on wooden tracks and was drawn by a horse,

EASTERN STARS HOLD INSTALLATION

Making a special occasion of it, Grayling Chapter O. E. S. No. 83 held their annual installation of officers Wednesday evening of last week at the Masonic Temple.

This marked the first such ceremony for the chapter in the new hall and it was very beautifully carried out. Adding to the pleasure of the evening, there were 35 ladies present from Gaylord and also several from Roscommon.
